MISSOULA--

Dr. Roman Zylawy, assistant professor of foreign languages at the University of the Montana, Missoula, has been awarded a $2,250 grant from / National Endowment for the Humanities to study at the University of Illinois, Urbana, this summer.

Zylawy will participate in a seminar entitled "The French Enlightenment in the American Revolution" from June 21-Aug. 13. He will also be doing a research project on Marivaux, an 18th Century French author, who was a dramatist and specialized in writing about the theater and sociological problems of the 18th Century.

Zylawy was coordinator of the French Cultural Exchange Program overseas and the International Week at UM last year.
